Property Description

Location: Spain, Casares

In-keeping with the customs of the Arab world, this secluded private enclave is carefully hidden away from sight. To ensure maximum privacy, the upper-level features just one large horizontal recess, covered by intricate latticework that both filters sunlight and shields the villa from outside onlookers.

Minimalism is key to the villa’s layout and dimensions. The property is accessed via a patio on the upper level, which leads to a hallway that in turn provides access to both the bedrooms and the ground level. This level boasts various outdoor and indoor spaces that break down the barriers which traditionally divide a house from its surroundings, thus allowing the whole garden floor to be enjoyed as one continual space.
